CBS News: 30 People Still Injured After Houston Home Burns
A house fire in Houston, Texas, has left 30 people injured. (Published Monday, Feb. 5, 2017) Thirty people were injured Sunday when a house fire broke out in Houston, Texas. The fire broke out at a house in the Gulfgate area at about 10:30 p.m. local time, KPRC 2 reported. Houston Fire Department Battalion Chief Omar Knedlik told the news station that 30 people were transported to the hospital, none of them with life-threatening injuries.

According to Houston police, a suspect in the case was arrested. KPRC 2 reported that police did not immediately release any information on the suspect. The Houston Chronicle reported that the fire started inside a downstairs bedroom of the two-story home, leading some victims to believe they might have been trapped by the fire. Others were trapped on the first floor, the Chronicle reported. Crews had to cut through some of the walls to access the home and remove victims, Houston Fire Department spokesman Alan Levine said. Hundreds of people were evacuated from the area. As of Monday morning, fire investigators were still on the scene, but it was not immediately known what sparked the fire. Deputies told KPRC 2 that a man was arrested, but they did not immediately provide any further information. The fire is being investigated by fire officials as a suspected arson, the Chronicle reported. Houston residents can follow local updates of the fire and evacuation situation on the official Houston Fire Department page. that have prompted outrage among the families and activists. In a statement to HuffPost, ICE said it is “confident” that the transferred officer will “continue to do his job safely and professionally in his new assignment.” The agency added that “all ICE employees must maintain the highest standards of professional conduct and treat all those with whom they interact with courtesy
