After we announced our Diablo III Review: A Call to Arms, we received feedback from many of you asking for your support to go to the PC version. We never like to disappoint our fans and we certainly didn't want to disappoint you. In light of this, we have decided to stop supporting the PC version of Diablo III and move on to other endeavors within the Diablo universe. We will continue to support Mac, PlayStation 3, and PlayStation 4. We will continue to support the Xbox 360 version of Diablo III. We will continue to support Xbox One versions of Diablo III, even though we won't be able to provide any new content. And while we are unable to provide support for the PC version of Diablo III, we have a host of new content coming to the PS3, PS4, and Xbox 360 on June 19 and we will continue to support all of our platforms. Stay tuned for more information! We want to thank you for your support in bringing Diablo to PC. We would love to work with you again in the future.
